Rotonda West Celebrated the 250th Anniversary of the USA

By: Karen Harvey

*A*nd oh what a celebration it was! The morning of May 23rd dawned crisp and clear, albeit a little hot.

The day started out at the newly renovated island with a dedication of the Statue of Liberty and a bench dedicated to Don Mahon. The American Legion posted the colors, Pastor Garry Clark gave the invocation and Stephen R. Deutsch gave the keynote address. The unveiling of the Statue of Liberty was breathtaking as she now stands watch over all of Rotonda residents.

America's birthday celebration continued at the Community Center where there was food provided by Mad Dogs, Harry the Clown, Music by Eric Stafanik, Face Painting by Vickie and friends, inflatables for the kids' enjoyment and a photo booth. The Pie contest won by Sue Killian was sponsored by the Rotonda West Women's Club.

About 300 people enjoyed the festival which ran until 2:30 p.m. with no rain in sight.

Happy Birthday America

MEMBERS' INPUT (Agenda Items)

1. The Quarters – Many members came out to speak about the proposed development that is scheduled to be built, known as the Quarters. Members thanked the Board of Directors for sending the letter to Charlotte County Commissioners about the oppositional concerns of infrastructure/density/architecture issues that will affect RWA members' way of life. It was again suggested by a member that there be a special assessment to raise money to buy up the vacant properties so that RWA has control over what is being built in Rotonda West. Many members are meeting with county officials to investigate what actions to take to stop this project from moving forward. Director Traverso was asked if the NCC had received plans and specifications. His reply was no, that they have not received anything at this time, and the project is still in zoning. Director Traverso was questioned: he would report to the board when the NCC receives information on this project. Director Traverso responded that he would report to the Board of Directors. A question was posed about how RWA would enforce the deed restrictions on new developments in the RWA area, for residential projects. President Van Scyoc stated that several weeks ago, when this started, he made an errant statement stating that this is supposedly under the RWA jurisdiction, but not our deed restriction. That was incorrect; they are subject to our deed restrictions; however, they are not subject to our new building specification. So RWA can't control what they build. Once they build it, they must comply with our deed restrictions.

President's Update: Andy Van Scyoc

President Van Scyoc announced he was moving the Audit to the front of the agenda. He stated he knew the Quarters would be an issue, and it was and will be sometime moving forward. He also offered any member a tour of the new addition after the meeting, if they would like.

Treasurer's Report:

Director Besase provided a written report attached to these minutes. As of March 31, 2026, RWA has 2.9 million in cash operations and reserves. Twenty-five percent of the year is done. Year-to-date expenses are under $52,000.00. About 6% of properties are delinquent. The budget is in great financial shape, and reserves are already funded for the year.

Manager's Report: Manager Hedges

Mr. Hedges provided a written report attached to these minutes. He let everyone know that RWA had a new hire, Faella, who would be the new receptionist/administrator.

Deed Restrictions Violations: Kelsey Stewart, Administrator

Ms. Stewart stated that there are violations listed in the Board Packet for approval. A motion to levy fines on members for violations listed numbers 1 through 56. If confirmed by the Compliance Committee, these fines shall be automatically imposed.

- Director Harvey made a motion to approve the Deed Restriction Violations, and Director Orchard 2nd the Motion. Motion Unanimously Approved.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Administration/Personnel – President Van Scyoc (Chair) No Report.

Budget & Finance Report: No Report.

Buildings & Grounds – Director Besase (Chair)

Director Besase provided a written report attached to these minutes. Director Besase mentioned that in a previous meeting and the Building and Grounds meeting, it was suggested that a one-time assessment to be conducted to generate funds to purchase the land on Parade Circle for tracts 1 through 9. There is supposed to be a soft poll sent by email. Historically, about 5% of RWA residents do not pay, so the rest of the RWA property owners would have to make up the difference. He reminded everyone that the dedication to the Statue of Liberty will take place on May 23, 2026. The dedication will be at Liberty Island from 10:00 am to 10:30 am, and a celebration will follow at the community center from 11:00 am to 2:30 pm.

Charter Taskforce Committee – Karen Harvey

Director Harvey stated that all the Charters have been reviewed, and a workshop with the Board of Directors will be scheduled soon. A new format has been designed for those Charters, and it has already been applied to two of the Charters for the committees to see if it works, and it does; it looks great. After the workshop, the resolution will be signed, and we will be off and running with all new charters for the committees.

Community Outreach – Gwen Grace (Chair)

Director Grace provided a written report attached to these minutes.

- Director Grace motioned to accept Diane Sweeny to the Community Outreach Committee, and Director Harvey seconded the motion. Motion Unanimously Approved.

Compliance – Barb Peszko (Chair)

Ms. Peszko provided a written report attached to these minutes.

Residential Modifications Committee – Barb Peszko (Chair)

Ms. Peszko provided a written report attached to these minutes.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Board of Directors re-addressed 139 Mariner Lane, Appeal held over from last month, due to review the Residential Modification Committee Zoom meeting. Motion was made to sustain the decision of the committee: Board Roll Call Vote: Sam Besase, yes; Gwen Grace, no; Director Harvey, yes; Director Orchard, yes; David Kelly – no vote lost connection; Peter Traverso, yes; President Van Scyoc, yes. Final Vote 5-1 Board voted to uphold the Residential Modification decision; the denial is sustained.

- Director Orchard made a motion to uphold the denial decision made by the Res Mod committee, and Director Besase seconded the motion regarding changes at 139 Mariner Lane.

NEW BUSINESS & COMMUNICATIONS

1. Audit Report - Director Besase stated that every year, RWA has an independent outside auditing firm conducts an independent audit on the books from the previous year, which has been the case for the last 25 years. The auditor is available online for any questions regarding the audit.

- Director Besase motioned to accept the annual audit report, and Director Harvey seconded the motion. Motion Unanimously Approved.

2. Sign Guideline – Director Orchard noted that she and President Van Scyoc were part of the Sign Guideline committee, along with several of the staff members, the ones who deal with all the signs that we see in and around the neighborhood, and some of the updates that need to be done. A few things were added to the sign guideline. One of them is that you will be able to purchase signs for the RWA office that you may attach to your house, to an approved fence, or to your mailbox or dwelling. These will be the only signs that RWA will permit for these items. We want to get away from the signs stuck in the yard that could be blown around. There is also a temporary category for celebration signs and banners. That addresses "happy birthday" or "Happy anniversary"! Congratulations to our graduates. The caveat for a reasonable time, members are only allowed to have three signs each. The office personnel would like you to register at the office to help track the three-sign-per-property limit.

- Director Orchard motioned to accept the updated sign guidelines, and Director Harvey 2nd the motion. Motion Unanimously Approved.

MEMBERS' INPUT (Non-Agenda Items)

86 Pine Valley Court – Elyse and James Bertling 26

Pine Valley Court – Viston & Lori Batey

Ms. Bertling and Ms. Batey expressed their difficulty with one of the neighbors at 88 and 90 Pine Valley Court, who are James and Susan Reske. They claim they are being harassed by their landscapers, trespassing on their property and dumping landscaping debris there. They also claim that a camera is pointed at their house from the vacant lot, spying on them. James and Susan Reske expressed that they were only protecting their property by using cameras. All members had their chance to speak, and President Van Scyoc expressed that he and Manager Hedges would like to meet with all parties involved to resolve the neighbor-to-neighbor dispute.

RESPONSE TO MEMBER'S INPUT

DIRECTOR INPUT

Director Harvey stated that she loves the changes to the violations letter. The violation letter is all sinking together, and the math is all done for us. I want to thank whoever did this. I like the way it looks, and capturing the red-circled violation items and the number on the pictures helps to decipher the violation.

Hurricane Season Is Here! Is Your Plan In Place?

By Connie Smith

Hurricane season started June 1; it's time to have your disaster plan in place and your disaster supplies are ready. You'll be able to let out a sigh of relief when hurricane season ends on November 1.

A full house, plus attendees via zoom, heard Brandon Watkins of Charlotte County's Office of Emergency Management and CERT team coordinator, say that Florida's definition of evacuation has changed since 2017 when Irma hit the state. At that time, when residents were told to leave, they were expected to leave the state. The result was it took 18 hours to reach the state line from south Florida and I-75 became a massive parking lot.

Today, Watkins said, emergency management officials realize, "you only need to go 10s of miles, not 100s of miles." In 1992, Florida "overhauled" its building codes and those changes made homes built in 1994 and after, able to withstand 175+ wind speeds and high impacts. An easily purchased wind mitigation study can determine any home's ability to withstand hurricane winds.

The simple rule is: "Hide from Wind, Run from Water", so it's the threat of storm surge that triggers evacuation notices to residents, first in red zones and if the threat increases, in orange and subsequent zones. Rotonda West is almost exclusively in the orange (B) zone. According to Charlotte County Emergency Management literature, storm surge is historically the leading cause of hurricane-related deaths in the United States. Higher ground (10s of miles) in Charlotte County may be found as close as Northport, Deep Creek or Babcock Ranch.

The start of hurricane season is also the perfect time to review your insurance coverage, to make sure it is sufficient to cover your home and supplemental areas, if needed. Watkins pointed to the catastrophic condition of Ft. Myers Beach residents who lost their homes after Hurricane Ian because they were under-insured and were unable to rebuild. He also cautioned residents from depending upon FEMA. "FEMA will not make you whole," he said. "$33,000 is the maximum anyone may receive," and he suggested few would qualify for the maximum. "Safety and sanitary conditions are their focus," he said.

When evacuating, he said it is important to take with you, important documents, such as insurance papers, I.D.s, birth certificates, medical records, passports, cash and medicines. You may have friends or family on higher ground, where you can ride out the evacuation period, or you may go to a hotel outside the evacuation area. A local emergency shelter should be your last resort, as space is limited and there will be no hot food or cooking facilities. The good news is that all Charlotte County shelters will allow pets.

A special needs shelter will be available, but those individuals must preregister by calling 941-833-4000 or complete an online application. Availability is not guaranteed; only medical monitoring is provided; one caregiver must be brought with the patient.

Post-hurricane, residents should plan for one gallon of water per person per day for seven days and shelf-stable sustenance for seven days. They should have a flashlight with extra batteries or power bank and a weather radio with a hand crank. Sufficient medicines and other necessities should also be on hand.

A copy of the Charlotte County Disaster Guide was made available to each attendee and is available online. Watkins urged everyone to study the guide (click on the link to access). Being able to secure your own household allows first responders to focus on critical lifesaving infrastructure recovery, he said.

Watkins also urged resident to become involved with CERT (Community Emergency Response Team), "that provides help until help arrives." Involvement includes a 3-day basic training. Call 941-833-400 or e-mail CERT@charlottecountyfl.gov to get on the wait list for the next class.

Brandon Watkins, specialist with Charlotte County Office of Emergency Management, shows Rotonda residents a county evacuation map.

HURRICANE EVACUATION MAP

Red areas in Charlotte County are the first to be declared evacuation zones in the event of predicted hurricane storm surge. Orange zones, which encompasses Rotonda West, is the second area to be evacuated.

Southwest Florida Drought Leaves Reservoir Half Empty

Written by: Emily Andersen

Credit to: Sam Besase

Suncoast Searchlight

May 18, 2026, 4:01 a.m. ET

- A drought has caused Southwest Florida's water reserves to drop to about an eight-month supply.
- Officials state the drinking water supply is secure despite the shortage and expect to refill reserves during the summer rainy season.
- An emergency order allows for continued water pumping from the low-flowing Peace River, which raises environmental concerns.

Standing on the wall of a reservoir the size of about four golf courses, it's easy to see the impact of Southwest Florida's extreme water shortage.

Operated by the Peace River Manasota Regional Water Supply Authority, the reservoir is built to hold 6 billion gallons of water. It is now half empty, and the distance between the current waterline and the visible mark where the water normally sits is striking.

The lack of water has become dangerous for local ecosystems, but as far as drinkable water supply is concerned, officials say they're not panicking yet. Even if the drought continues through this year's rainy season, officials are confident they can refill the supply before the end of the summer.

"This summer, we'll probably fill up a little faster. Usually, during the rainy season, there's more water flowing than we even need to take, or can take, with the pumps we have out there," said Katie Gilmore, the director of operations for the Peace River Manasota Regional Water Supply Authority. "So, this year, we'll definitely pull as much as we can, until we're full."

The Peace River Manasota Regional Water Supply Authority is also planning ahead for projected population growth, future droughts, and the extreme swings of climate change by expanding capacity to more than double the amount of above-ground water in reserve.

The authority is the primary water supplier for Sarasota, Charlotte, and DeSoto counties. It's stationed near North Port along the Peace River, where each day, pumps pull millions of gallons of water from the river into a reservoir big enough to hold more than 9,000 Olympic-sized swimming pools.

The water is treated and either sent out to the water supply authority's municipal customers or injected into an underground storage system called Aquifer Storage and Recovery, or ASR.

To get an idea of how the drought is impacting the region's water supply, Suncoast Searchlight toured the authority's sprawling outdoor facility, which includes a pump station on the river, the main reservoir, and a collection of blue well pumps marking the ASR underground storage locations.

There is also a second 500-million-gallon reservoir and a blocked-off construction zone, where work has recently begun on what will be a 9-billion-gallon reservoir when finished in about three years.

Water reserves fall to about eight months' supply

Between the ASR and the two completed reservoirs, the facility usually has between a 12- and 13-month supply of water, based on its usual output of almost 1 billion gallons per month.

That has now dropped to about eight months' worth of water, according to data that Gilmore presented to the facility's board of directors on April 1.

"This really is a drought situation," Gilmore told Suncoast Searchlight. "There's less rainfall. One can assume, even without watching the weather and their predictions, that there's going to be less rainfall, so we needed to start preparing for that."

Southwest Florida is currently experiencing its worst water shortage in almost a decade, prompting the Southwest Florida Water Management District to implement Phase 3 water restrictions for the first time since 2017.

Previous Suncoast Searchlight reporting found that the restrictions are not being evenly enforced across Sarasota County and that lack of compliance could be detrimental to the local environment.

"History has shown us that voluntary water restrictions do not work," said Glenn Compton, the chairman of ManaSota-88, a local environmental nonprofit. "There needs to be more mandatory restrictions that are put in year-round, so that we don't end up in a situation where we're concerned about reduced water supply in a drought."

Without emergency rule changes put in place this year, the water supply situation could have become much worse. But Compton said changing the protocol for water collection could exacerbate the environmental impact of the drought.

In a typical year, the Southwest Florida Water Management District doesn't allow the water supply authority to pump water out of the Peace River if the river's flow is lower than 130 cubic feet per second.

The river has been below that limit since November — around the same time the water management district first declared that Southwest Florida was in a water shortage. Despite the lower flow, an emergency order issued in March allows the water supply authority to continue pumping a small amount of water from the river. It's not enough to erase the deficit.

Water system releasing more than triple what it pulls from the river

In March, the water supply authority pulled an average of 8.73 million gallons per day from the river, but it dispensed an average of more than three times that amount each day to the communities it serves.

The emergency order expires at the end of May, so the water authority will soon be relying only on its stored water — until expected summer rains bring an increase in river flow levels. If this year's rainfall follows the Peace River Basin's usual pattern, that likely won't happen until June or July.

"That's why it was built, to handle stuff like this," the authority's executive director, Richard Anderson, said. "We've been able to use a little bit of rain and the emergency order that we got to basically keep the reservoir level where it was at the end of March."

Anderson and Gilmore said the only anticipated long-term effect on water supply and operations will be an increased cost this summer as the staff and machinery at the plant work harder to refill, but those costs aren't likely to be passed on to customers.

"The power, the chemicals to treat the water, all costs money, so if we're running at a higher demand than normal, that'll be an additional cost on us," Gilmore said. "We have enough built into our budget to handle that, but that'll be our impact."

The environmental impact will likely last much longer. According to Compton, taking even a small amount of water from the already low river is dangerous for wildlife and local ecosystems. Lack of water can change which plants are able to thrive in certain areas, causing more competition for local native vegetation, and it can cause animals to change their concentration patterns in search of more water, impacting predator and prey dynamics.

"It's almost equivalent to taking a little bit of oxygen out of the system and expecting it to remain healthy," he said. "Having an emergency declaration where you can withdraw more water than what is permitted could have a devastating impact on the river's resources."

Easy Lawns!

by Merrill Horswill, Florida Master Naturalist

A traditional “lawn” or turf grass can be difficult and costly to maintain, with costs going up for fertilizer, herbicides, pesticides, gas for mowers, water and time. What if you could have a lawn that needs no or infrequent mowing and no chemicals? As a bonus the easy lawn uses less water, provides much needed biodiversity and attracts pollinators. Native and Florida Friendly plants provide beautiful alternatives to turf grass. You can start with part of your yard.

To see examples: Sunshine Powderpuff is growing around the pond beside the Community Center and Frogfruit is growing next to and behind the Community Center.

The biodiverse lawn takes just four easy steps:

1. Assess your existing lawn conditions: coverage, light, soil quality and drainage.
2. Remove the existing grass or weeds if needed. Cardboard with mulch cover works well.
3. Choose the right plants based on your conditions. See <https://ffl.ifas.ufl.edu/>
4. Plant your biodiverse lawn. Water as needed until established.

Some plants that make a beautiful easy lawn:

Sunshine Powderpuff (Mimosa strigillosa) native:

Creates a mat hundreds of square feet from an initial plant with small, globe-like, pink flowers, rarely gets six inches high. It has deep, complex roots compared to turf grasses which allows it to thrive even in drought and produces its own nitrogen, unlike grasses, which eliminates the need for fertilizer. It attracts pollinators such as butterflies and bumblebees, contributing to the biodiversity of your yard. It is a host plant for the Little sulphur butterfly.

Frogfruit (Phyla nodiflora) native:

This evergreen perennial is low-growing creeping, often forming dense mat of green foliage that can grow in full sun to part shade. It is wind and salt tolerant. The distinct white and purple flowers are small but very showy, particularly when planted in mass. It is a good nectar source for bees and small butterflies such as hairstreaks, and is the larval host for the White peacock, Phaon crescent and Common buckeye butterflies.

Perennial peanut (Arachis glabrata) Florida Friendly:

Perennial peanut prefers heat, sun and sandy, well-drained soil. It produces rhizomes (underground stems) and roots that help it survive during dry periods and can fix nitrogen from the air in association with specialized bacteria and forms a dense mat that suppresses weeds. It is a host plant for the Barred sulfur butterfly.

Apple Crumb Pie by Diane Swinney

9" Pie Pan

Prepare and roll out pastry for 9" pie. Place pastry into pie pan.

Filling:

6 cups thinly sliced, peeled cooking apples (Granny Smith or another firm variety)

If desired, for taste, you may sprinkle apples with 1 Tablespoon Lemon Juice.

In a large bowl stir together 3/4 Cup sugar, 2 Tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1/2 Tsp ground cinnamon, dash ground nutmeg. Add apple slices and gently toss until coated. Transfer to the prepared pie shell.

Crumb Topping:

Stir together 1/2 Cup all-purpose flour and 1/2 cup packed brown sugar. Using a pastry blender, cut in 3 Tablespoons firm butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle Crumb Topping over filling.

Bake in 375 pre-heated oven for 60 to 75 minutes until the filling bubbles and the apples are tender when pierced. Cool completely before cutting and serving.

Maple Walnut Pecan Pie by Kathryn Gallagher

9" Pie Pan

1 single pie crust (unbaked)

1 cup Walnuts

1 cup Pecans

3 Tablespoons butter, melted

1/2 cup Real Maple Syrup

1 cup Brown Sugar

1 Tablespoon Orange Juice

2 Tablespoons All Purpose Flour

1 tsp Maple Extract

Large Pinch of Salt

3 large Eggs, lightly beaten

Gather all ingredients and preheat oven to 375 degrees

Toast combined nuts briefly in the oven just 'til fragrant...watch carefully as not to get too brown.

Spray pie dish with non-stick spray. Press pie dough carefully into pan and lightly prick the dough with tines of fork. Set aside.

In a large bowl, lightly beat the eggs, whisk in sugar, salt, flour, melted butter, maple syrup and extract. Add toasted nuts to combine all and pour into pie shell.

PRESS RELEASE

NATIONAL SAFE BOATING WEEK was held May 16-22, 2026. U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 99 had a very successful and rewarding program week, visiting many locations and distributing Safe Boating material to boaters at the various locations. Members were stationed at Gasparilla Marina, Placida Boat Ramp, the Lock in South Gulf Cove, and the Freedom Boat Club.

OPERATION DRY WATER weekend will take place July 3-5, 2026, and members from Flotilla 99, Cape Haze, will participate in this event again as they have in past years.

This is a national awareness and enforcement campaign focusing on reducing the number of alcohol-and drug-related incidents and fatalities and fostering a stronger, more visible deterrent to alcohol and drug use on the water. Law Enforcement Officers, during Operation Dry Water will be on heightened alert for violations of boating under the Influence (BUI) laws, promoting the safety of all boaters.

The three-day event will be taking place nationwide, coinciding with the Fourth of July weekend. Operating a boat while impaired is dangerous and can have fatal consequences for both the operator and the passengers. It is essential for both to remain sober to ensure a safe and enjoyable experience on the water.

As Father's Day approaches, the entire Board of Directors acknowledges all the wonderful Dads in our community and remembers those cherished Dads who are no longer with us.

We encourage all residents to stay informed by watching the recordings of our monthly meetings, which are available on our website and Facebook Page. These recordings contain valuable information about Neighborhood Watch activities, monthly updates, and important insights shared by Deputy Inferino from CCSO. Each month, Deputy Inferino provides updates on happenings within Rotonda West and Charlotte County.

Our community is currently experiencing significant construction and sales. With approximately 108 new homes being built, 215 existing homes for sale, and 301 lots for sale (just within our circle), PLUS 265 houses, and over 2,000 lots for sales within our zip code; this excludes most contractor and private sales.

This increased activity leads to heavier "lookie-loo" traffic, potential risks to unoccupied properties (particularly snowbird homes), and the vulnerability of construction equipment and materials being stolen from construction sites. Please be vigilant and remember, there should be no overnight work on new construction sites. If you observe any suspicious activity, please don't hesitate to call the CCSO Non-emergency number at 941-639-2101.

We Need You! Volunteering with Neighborhood Watch requires just two hours a month, whether as a Patrol member or a Base Operator volunteer. It's a small commitment with a significant impact on protecting our neighborhoods. If you are interested in joining our organization, please contact David Perry at 941-828-1584, visit our Facebook page @ Rotonda West Neighborhood Watch, or scan the QR code above.

Why do we patrol?

- Basic Crime Prevention: Our presence alone helps deter crime, and thanks to the continued efforts of our volunteers, we maintain one of the LOWEST crime rates in Charlotte County. We need your help to keep it that way.
- Build a Stronger Community: We foster connections among neighbors. In today's fast-paced world, Neighborhood Watch provides an opportunity to connect, discuss community improvements, and build stronger relationships.

Benefits of Neighborhood Watch: Over the years, Neighborhood Watch volunteers and their communities have experienced significant benefits, including: A reduction in crime. Better quality of life. Greater sense of security, responsibility, and personal control. Building community pride and unity. Preparing for and assisting others in our community. Serving as the extra "eyes and ears" for law enforcement, thereby reducing their burden.

See you at our next meeting: June 17th @ 10am at the RWA Community Center

CHARLOTTE COUNTY NEWS ITEMS – JUNE 2026

By Sam Besase

Here is the latest information from Charlotte County on the Rotonda Boulevard South Bridge Replacement:

“Staff is working with our consultant that helps us through FEMA processes on when we are able to start the bridge while making sure we get the FEMA funds that they have said we could obtain. Public Work’s staff is ready to put the project out to bid as soon as we get the go ahead from them and our fiscal team.”

“Once we are able to put it out, the bidding process typically takes around 4 months from the time it is sent to purchasing until it is approved by the board. The bids include a section for the contractor to add the timeframe of when they would be able to start the project. Staff and the contractor choose a start date based on this timeframe once it is approved by the board.”
